Defining inclusive and community research

What the room said

27	18	87
people joined on Slido	took part in at least one activity	votes and answers in total

01 · THE WORDS YOU USED

Same work, many words.

Think of the last project you worked on. What word did you use for it? 24 responses.

Gold marks the seven words that described how the work felt.

02 · THE QUIZ

Every answer was a recognised definition.

Which definition is right? Pick one. Some people picked more than one.

Engagement 12 people

Sharing information and knowledge about research	2
A two-way process of listening, for mutual benefit	5
An umbrella for approaches up to co-production	4
A working relationship to act on community needs	3

Involvement 13 people

Research done with or by the public	5
Being consulted	2
Working with people so their concerns shape the options	10
Informing or consulting people	2

Participation 16 people

Taking part in a study	9
Taking part in decisions	2
Citizens holding real power over decisions	4
Communities shaping the research	4

© Elysium London 2026

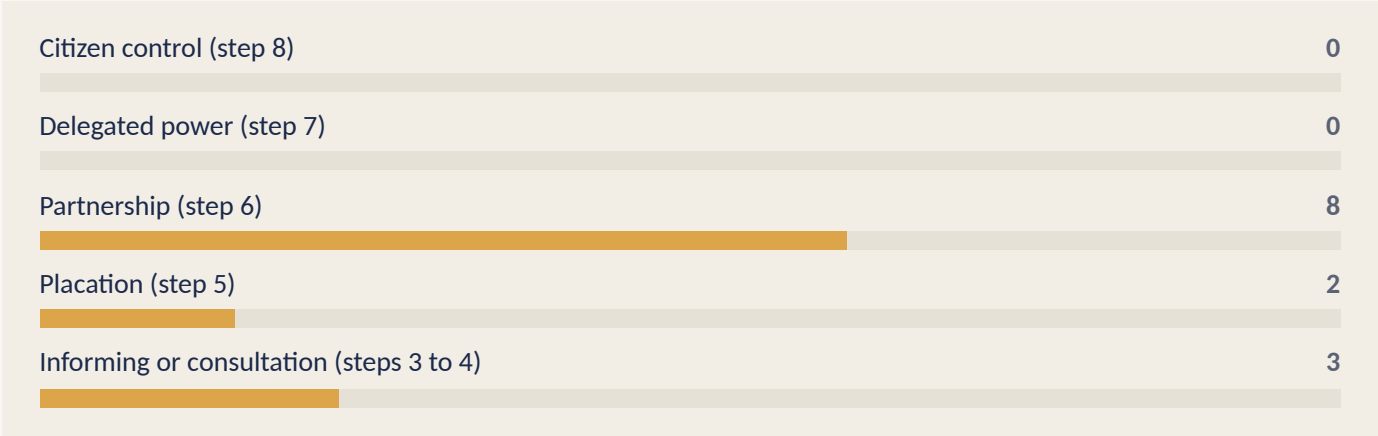

Defining inclusive and community research

What the room said

03 · WHERE YOUR LAST PROJECT SAT

Most sat at partnership.

Your last project. Run the three questions: where did it actually sit? 13 responses.

04 · ONE THING YOU'D CHANGE

For your next project.

Name one thing you'd change. 11 responses, as written, with names removed.

> "More feedback and learning sessions on the joint research process"

> "Community ownership and continuity"

> "Take a view about the power relationship"

> "Start with the community power arrangements and giving resources directly to groups"

> "More followups and update on the project progress."

> "shared decision making of what comes next"

> "Confirm the power sharing arrangements"

> "Effective feedback of impact of insight to those who gave it as standard"

> "Nothing. It was great. Albeit doomed."

> "Including community members in reports and outcomes more explicitly"

> "Train community researchers and academics on how to work together"

© Elysium London 2026